Double Appointment for Wycombe Law Firm

Wycombe solicitors Reynolds Parry Jones have announced two new appointments. Deborah Maunder and Carl Selby have both been appointed Associate Solicitors in the firm's Commercial Department.

Deborah is a graduate of Manchester University and was admitted as a solicitor in 1984. Carl obtained his degree at Durham University and was admitted in 2008.

Deborah spent her early career as a lawyer in the city, taking an extensive break in the nineties to bring up her family, resuming her career with Reynolds Parry Jones in 2007 where she specialises in Commercial Property. She is married and lives in Bledlow Ridge with her husband and three sons.

Carl joined the firm as a trainee solicitor in 2006 and was offered a position as Assistant Solicitor in the firm's Commercial Department on admission. He specialises in Company and Commercial law. He lives in Wycombe.

Richard Hughes, senior partner, commented "One of our objectives as a firm is to develop and enhance the services we offer our business clients. The appointment of these two talented lawyers is both a strengthening of our resources in the commercial sector and an expression of confidence in their abilities to deliver what our clients demand."
